

Tips for finding free webhosting

Marketing your free website

Setting up a free website is easy and requires no experience and very little knowledge of IT or computer programming. Everything you need to know will be explained in full and the different things that are available to be used on your site are also explained in full so you can set everything up as easily as possible and without any problems. There is so much that you can do with your own free web site and it is worthwhile to look at this easy option if you are short on cash and want to get a website for your business or for personal family purposes. There are many free webhosting services out there that offer great webhosting for free in exchange for advertising or a service from you. Using free webhosting companies is also not difficult and you can find the best ones through webhosting directories. It is best to keep checking back with the active directories every day, because sometimes these free webhosting companies will fold after just a day, if they are not good enough.

You can get free webhosting plans that are trials and some will require you to join a forum in exchange for the free website. In some cases you will have to endure irritating pop up ads and banners across your free web sites and some will ask you to fill out forms for them for various offers. There are some that offer good hosting with unlimited bandwidth and large disk space and that also give you no forced ads. These are preferred for businesses, but the only thing you will have to be careful of is that they don't sell your email address to third parties. Those that don't require anything in return will probably use a sub domain as a form of advertising, so when you register with them your website address will be yourbusiness.hostcompany.com or something of the sort.

Setting up your website once you have found the best one for your needs is easy. There are various scripting formats that you can use and there are also basic and more advanced editors. This will allow you to put image galleries on, include maps, RSS feeds and upload photos as well as writing content. In order to market the free web sites you will have to read up about SEO or search engine optimization. Most of the free webhosting service will ask you for keywords and meta descriptions. You must think of as many keywords as you can that someone will type into a search engine that will take them to your site. Then you must also use these keywords in your website's content. You will also need to create links to the other pages in your website as well as to other places and you also need to have incoming links from other websites. This means you have to add your business and website URL to as many directories as you can. If you want to get your website out into the marketplace and make sure that people know about it, you will also have to write the content with search engines in mind and find out as much as you can regarding internet marketing options.

About the Author

Adam drake is author of this article on Free Web Hosting. Find more information about Free Web Hosting here.

Source: <http://bunnyrich.com/>